Alleged Robberies by Fenians in Ireland—Church Disestablishment Bill Disposed of—The Irish Land Question—Mahommedan New Year in Turkey—Pacific Adress by the Sultan.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

GREAT BRITAIN.

LONDON, May 7.—There have been several heavy robberies of arms, ammunition &c., in various parts of Ireland during the past few days, At Belfast a large quantity of arms were stolen last evening. Five persons were arrested this morning on supicion of committing the theft. Dispatches from CORK mention the perpetration of similar outrages. There seems to be no doubt but the culprits belong, in every instance, to Fenian organizations. The police have been ordered to exercise unusual vigilance.

CORK, May 7.—The Town Council today adopted a protest against the bill introduced in the House of Commons disabling Mr. O'Sullivan, the present Mayor of the city, from performing the functions of a magistrate. They also resolved to engage counsel to oppose the bill. Mr. O'Sullivan is announced as a candidate for a seat in the House of Commons from Youghall.

LONDON, May 7.—The Times to-day has another editorial on the Alabama claims. It says England endeavored to do justice to all parties during the late rebellion, and must decline to acknowledge any other motive for her action. She has offered to submit to arbitration the question whether she has been culpably negligent, but she cannot go further. Extravagant misrepresentation were necessary to furnish the basis for such a policy as is foreshadowed in Mr. Sumner's speech. The Times concludes by assuring the Americans that it will prove a failure.

The Telegraph also has an article on the same subject. It promises that England will give an attentive ear to reasonable propositions, but will not listen to novel pretensions. If no solution is now practicable, she will leave the question at issue to the influences of time and the mature judgment of the American people for adjustment.

LONDON, May 7—Midnight.—The House of Commons has finished the consideration of the Irish Church Bill in committee.

In the House of Lords to-night the Marquis of Salisbury wanted to know if Her Majesty's Government endorsed the policy advocated by Mr. Bright, to the effect that the people must be placed in possession of the land of Ireland in great numbers. He said the present uncertainty as to the position of the government on the land question was injurious. Earl Granville, in reply, said he must decline to open the question. A bill on the subject would be introduced at the next session of Parliament. He assured the House that the government would maintain the rights of property.

TURKEY.

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 6.—On Wednesday, May 5th, first day of Mahommetan New Year, the Sultan, according to custom, received ministers of foreign powers. He made an address of a most pacific character. He referred, with satisfaction, to the favorable settlement of difficulties with Greece, the pacification of Crete, and the friendly relations of Turkey with all foreign powers. He said he should continue to insist in economy of the administration, the improvement of judicial procedure, the extension of the railroad system, and the equal participation of all classes of his subjects in the obligations and benefits of these reforms. The Cretan chieftains have been pardoned and set free.

Hewson, White & Co. vs. Jackson et al. Action on a promissory note. Verdict for plaintiff in the sum of $2,568.25.

Rodgers vs. Spencer. Action of trespass vie et armis for damages. Defendant is proprietor of a hotel on Second avenue, where, it appears, the plaintiff was acting in a very disorderly manner, when defendant ordered him to leave the house, which he refused to do, whereupon, it is alleged, defendant made an assault upon him and forcibly ejected him from the premises, and in doing so, it is alleged, used more force than was really necessary. The jury, however, were not of that opinion, and found for the defendant.

Achenbach vs. Helvetia Building and Loan Association. Motion for a new trial and reasons filed.

Magee vs. De Knight. Sci fa on a mortgage. Plaintiff held a mortgage given by defendant in which there was a condition consequent, that if the interest was not paid promptly when due the entire amount of the principal and interest should become due and collectible. Defendant failed to pay one installment of interest when it became due, and the mortgage was left by plaintiff in the hands of his attorney for collection under the condition named. The following day, however, and before suit was brought to recover the money, defendant went to the attorney's office and paid the interest and received a receipt therefor. The attorney receiving the interest alleges that he was under the impression that Mr. Magee, the plaintiff, had agreed with defendant to receive the interest alone, and had sent him there to pay it. Defendant held that the payment of the interest before suit was brought or even a tender of it was a bar to the action. The Court instructed the jury to find as to whether plaintiff's attorney received the money under a misunderstanding, and reserved the question as to whether tender or payment before suit was brought was a bar to the action.

The jury found for the plaintiff in the sum of $3,027,30, with costs of suit, including five per cent. attorney's commission, subject to the question of law reserved by the Court, and further, that plaintiff's attorney was not induced by statements made by the defendant to receive the interest due, as alleged by plaintiff.

Calhoun & Co. vs. McKim & Co. Motion for a new trial and reasons filed.

Dentistry.

If you need the services of a dentist, go to Dr. Gillispie. He is always in the advance with every improvement in his profession—furnishes the best artificial teeth, at the lowest prices; always aims to give satisfaction to his numerous patrons, and not willing to take their money without giving an equivalent, but ever ready to bestow any attention for the comfort of his patrons; never gives the cold shoulder to anyone because their bills are paid, but is courteous and kind to all. Gives the improved lauging gas, which he warrants perfectly safe in every case. His office is 216 Penn street.

Amusements.

OPERA HOUSE.—Humpty Dumpty is having an excellent run. It is well put on the boards, and as a result has succeeded perfectly. This afternoon a grand Matinee for ladies and children will take place at two o'clock. Special arrangements have been made for this Matinee which will doubtless be largely patronized.

PITTSBURGH THEATRE.—The new troupe at this establishment succeeds in attracting large audiences, which is a pretty good evidence of the character of the entertainment. A matinee has been arranged for this afternoon, with an entire change of programme. The entire company will appear. Go early.

THE RENEGADE OF THE POTOMAC.—The Academy of Music, on Monday night, is to be the scene of the first representation of this national drama. The committee having the engagement in charge have spared no pains in making their arrangements, and we hope they will be amply rewarded for their labors.

THE MUSEUM.—New attractions almost daily at the Museum, the only establishment of its character in the city. An instructive entertainment, worthy of extensive patronage.

MASONIC HALL.—To-night Everett, the great illusionist and presdigitator, will give his farewell performance. Aside from the meritorious character of the entertainment, several valuable presents will be distributed, and the purchaser of a ticket stands a chance of having his money returned with manifold interest.

Miss Dargon's Reading.

Miss Augusta L. Dargon's reading at the Academy of Music drew together one of the largest and most intellectual audiences of the season, and if we are to judge from the frequent manifestations of applause which rang through the house at the proper times, her hearers were keenly appreciative. The lady was perfectly at home in her new role as reader, and in all of her renditions displayed that rare and characteristic genius which has made her so popular in theatrical circles. She is devoid of forced affectation, and in her native grace and delicacy incisively gains her way into the hearts of her auditors. In the interpretation of character where great power is needed, or in the transition to the tenderest and sweetest bursts of pathos which bid tears rather than start the blood tingling and thrilling through the veins, Miss Dargon is equally at home. She uses fine taste in the selection of the strong points of her sketch, exquisite judgment in executing them, and marvellous adaptation in blending together in one pretty picture of prose or poetry all that is worthy and striking in the conception of the author. She has not made a mistake in abandoning the boards for the rostrum. She graced the Theatre as leading lady, shining conspicuously forth to adorn and elevate her profession, but her ambition laid in another direction and with her vigorous will, firm purpose and decided ability, she must and will carve her way high among the few finished readers now before the American public. We wish her success. A lady so refined, cultured, dignified and pure, and possessing so large a share of nature's richest endowments, genius and ability, is worthy the place her friends so ardently desire that she should occupy in the estimation of learned lovers of the fine arts.

A Complaint.

MESSRS EDITORS: The Pittsburgh and East Liberty Railway Company has reliable and truthful officers. If any one doubts it, let him read and be convinced. Last evening was the occasion of a grand exhibition of tableaux vivants in East Liberty, and in order that Pittsburghers might safely attend it, application was made to the officials of that Company for a car, or cars, to Pittsburgh after the conclusion of the entertainment.

The President of the Road, as I am informed, positively promised that a car should be sent through to Pittsburgh, starting immediately after the entertainment. It was so announced in the evening papers, and relying on the good faith of the Company, Pittsburghers went out to the tableaux.

Mark the sequel, stated in few words. The exhibition closed at a quarter past ten; one car started from East Liberty at eleven; it reached Oakland, and the conductor announced that "te car shopped now, and you 'uns will hav to valk." And this not to men alone, but to delicate ladies.

After a long negotiation, the conductor concluded to take the car and its passengers into the city, as a special favor, and upon the payment of fifty cents by each and every one thereof. Of course the money was paid, and all got safely home, but—. Will the mere fact that a man is an officer of the Pittsburgh and East Liberty Railway Company, hereafter, be considered conclusive proof that he tells the truth?

ONE WHO WAS THERE.

Poison for Dogs.

The Dispatch takes sides with the Post in the advocacy of poisoned sausages for dogs—similia, similibus, curanter. Wicked Dispatch! We cry peccavi, and promise to offer an ordinance in Council which shall make the dogs of Pittsburgh tremble, and render their keeping as troublesome as that of a wife and ten children, but please good Misters, kind Sirs, let the dogs have their day until their sacred liberties may be legally curtailed. In the meanwhile, let us say, if any man poison your dog shoot him (the dog) on the spot. Better that he die than linger in his agonies, and better that he die anyhow, for he is a pitiful dog who can't wag his tail with impunity on the streets of his native city.

Collision.

A huckster's wagon passing along Market street, last evening, collided with an obstruction in the way of a market stand at the northeast corner of the Diamond and Market street, turning over the stand and strewing the vegetables in grand profusion over the street. The stand capsized was located at the crossing at the corner named, and obstructs fully one-half the footway. By what authority are the streets and sidewalks obstructed by these market stands? The Mayor has the power to keep the streets free from all such obstructions, and we hope he will instruct his officers to do so.

Of Interest to Every One.

We were surprised to learn how great a number of persons require the care of a Dentist, and never fully realized it, until we called at the Steam Dental Establishment of Dr. J. Scott, 278 Penn street, and saw the crowds that made demands upon his valuable time and services. But we are not surprised to learn that the Doctor's business, although very large, is yet steadily increasing, for we know him to be at the head of his profession in this city, and a thorough Dentist, as well as a courteous gentleman; and, in connection with these facts, we may state that he has earned the reputation of inserting the very best artificial teeth that can be manufactured. For imitation of the natural organs, life-like appearance, together with the natural expression they give the lips and face; and last, but not least, for masticating the food, his work cannot be excelled. Many Dentists can put up beautiful specimen cases, who fail to give their patients teeth that they can eat with, for the simple reason that they know not how to articulate the teeth, so that they will best replace the lost ones. It is just here that Dr. Scott succeeds so well. He is quite an artist in his line of business, and has merely to examine a mouth to know how to arrange the teeth so that while presenting a natural appearance, they will masticate the food thoroughly. The Doctor is called upon every week in cases where other Dentists have tried, been paid and failed, and in every case his work gives entire satisfaction. His prices are lower than those of any Dentist in the city, and it would be better for those of our readers who want teeth, to call upon Dr. Scott in the first place, and thereby save time and money. We would also assure those who are suffering with diseased or unsightly teeth, that they can be extracted without the least pain or deleterious consequences. During a practice of near thirty years, the Dr. has administered pure sulphuric ether to OVER TWENTY THOUSAND persons, for the painless extraction of teeth, without injury resulting in a single case. On the contrary, he can refer to numbers of his patients who claim to have been benefitted in renewed health. So fear no longer—suffer no longer—but call at 278 Penn street, and get relief.

The Keystone Pottery.

It is seldom enterprise is so quickly rewarded as in the case of the Keystone Pottery. Establishing it in a community where all articles of queensware of good quality were imported, and the impression existed that no home manufacturer could succeed in this line, the proprietors of the "Keystone" by careful attention to business and indefatigable efforts to manufacture a superior article, have in a comparatively short space of time, produced a quality of goods which are recognized by their numerous purchasers as fully equal to the best heretofore imported, and much lower in price. The warehouse, No. 363 Liberty street, is well stocked with a full line of these goods, which will bear the closest inspection, and be found all that is represented. Orders addressed to S. M. Kier & Co., proprietors, will receive prompt attention.

A Night Attack.

Yesterday morning, about one o'clock, Christian Miller and Michael Yeager, residents on Second street, Third ward, Allegheny, aroused the neighborhood by getting into a row in front of Yeager's residence. Yeager, it is said, getting the worst of the fight, stepped into his house, and procuring a rifle discharged it at his opponent. The ball fortunately missed the mark, but the firing awakened a number of persons in the vicinity, among whom was Alderman Bolster. The Alderman, upon learning the state of affairs, called upon the night police, who succeeded, after considerable trouble, in arresting Yeager, who was taken to the magistrate's office, where Miller lodged an information against him for felonious assault. He was held in the sum of one thousand dollars for a hearing.

Rowdyism.

Yesterday afternoon a number of youths, ranging in ages from sixteen to eighteen years, having imbibed a quantity of fighting whisky, which they obtained at one of the low doggeries with which the city is disgraced, attacked a colored man on Federal street, Allegheny, and beat him in a shameful manner. The victim, after escaping from their clutches, called at the Mayor's office and lodged an information against the ringleader of the party for assault and battery. Warrant issued.

Obituary.—At Burlington, Iowa, yesterday, Mr. Walter Bateman, member of the firm of E. Edmundson & Co., upholsterers, Third avenue, this city, departed this life. He was widely known and respected, and his death will be deplored by a large number of warm and devoted personal friends.

MAY EVENING.

BY WILLIAM CULLEN BRYANT.

The breath of Spring-time at this twilight hour
Comes through the gathering glooms,
And bears the stolen sweets of many a flower
Into my silent room.

Where hast thou wandered, gentle gale, to find
The perfumes thou dost bring?
By brooks, that through the wakening meadows wind,
Or brink of rushy spring?

Or woodside, where, in little companies,
The early wild flowers rise,
Or sheltered lawn, where 'mid encircling trees,
May's warmest sunshine lies?

Now sleeps the humming bird, that, in the sun,
Wandered from bloom to bloom;
Now, too, the weary bee, his day's work done,
Rests in his waxen room.

Now every hovering insect to his place
Beneath the leaves hath flown,
And, through the long night hours, the flowery race
Are left to thee alone.

O'er the pale blossoms of the sassafras
And o'er the spice-bush spray,
Among the opening buds, thy breathings pass
And come embalmed away.

Yet there is sadness in thy soft caress,
Wind of the blooming year!
The gentle presence, that was wont to bless
Thy coming, is not here.

Go, then; and yet I bid thee not repair,
Thy gathered sweets to shed,
Where pine and willow, in the evening air,
Sigh o'er the buried dead.

Refresh the languid student pausing o'er
The learned page apart,
And he shall turn to con his task once more
With an encouraged heart.

Bear thou a promise, from the fragrant sward,
To him who tills the land,
Of springing harvests that shall yet reward
The labors of his hand.

Pass on to homes where cheerful voices sound,
And cheerful looks are cast,
And where thou wakest, in thine airy round,
No sorrow of the past.

And whisper, everywhere, that Earth renews,
Her beautiful array,
Amid the darkness and the gathering dews,
For the return of day.

BURIED ALIVE IN THE SEA.

In the year 1840, I was serving as a midshipman on board the United States frigate St. Lawrence, then cruising in the Pacific. The St. Lawrence carried a crew of six hundred men—Americans, Irishmen, and men belonging to every nationality under the sun. The majority of them had passed the best days of their lives in the service, and were imbued with all the superstitions so common to their calling, thirty years ago. It was often my fortune to hear wierd yarns of the sea told by men who believed every word of them, to comrades who scarcely dared to move while they listened. Some of the older sailors could, in dark, stormy nights, make the hair of a whole watch, including their own, stand on end—with ther tales of seas that gave up their dead, and of the ships that were haunted. On one of these occasions Larry McBlather, Captain of the forecastle, spoke as follows.

"When I sailed on the Sabine, she was haunted, an' this is the way it happened. Ye see, it was a dark, stormy night just like this, an' the men were sent out to furl the flying jib. The captain of the forecastle was stowin' the head of the sail, and all of a sudden he said to the man next to him: 'It blows hard, Jack;' an' then cut his throat an' fell overboard an' was lost. Ever after that, of a dark, stormy night, when the men went out to furl the flying jib they would see a man sittin' on the end of the boom, an' he would say: 'It blows hard Jack;' an' cut his throat an' fall overboard."

Just as Larry finished, a voice which seemed to proceed out of the air overhead, remarked: "It blows hard Jack." In an instant those who were not frightened too much to move were on their feet, and holding on the rigging to keep their tottering legs from letting them down.

"Did ye hear that, Harry Blower?" asked McBlather, as soon as he had recovered himself enough to speak."

"Yes, I heerd it," replied Harry; "and like all yer other bloody ghosts, it wasn't a ghost, but a parrot that said it."

"Man the flying-jib downhaul, clear away the halliards—haul down! Lay out, and furl the flying-jib!" These orders were issued by the officer of the deck; but there was hesitation displayed by all whose duty it was to obey them. In the meantime McBlather turned to Blower and said: "Now, Harry, I believe in ghosts—you don't. I hasn't the pluck to lead the men out on the flying jib-boom; I would be sure to see a man on the end of it. You have the pluck, an' you wouldn't see a man; therefore, Harry, will yez do me the favor to lead the men out?"

Harry Blower replied: "Larry, you're an idiot, a fool, and an ass. And ghost or no ghost, I don't lay out on the flying jib-boom to-night."

"Come! Lay out there, you lubbers, and furl the flying jib. What are you about?" came from the quarter-deck in a voice that smacked of a cat-o'-nine-tails and a dozen on the bare back.

In an instant the lubbers were scrambling out, led by McBlather.

"Do you hear anything, Larry?" inquired Terence Malone, who was the next man on the inside.

"No, blast ye," replied Larry; "and if you hear anything, 'don't let on ye hear it. Don't tell me ye hear it; and I warn ye not to show me anything ye see."

The sail was furled in short order; and the men "laid in," each one trying to get ahead of the other.

In a little while the watch was scattered about the decks—some to sleep, some to discuss the events of the evening, or any other subject which happened to interest them.

"I say Jack," remarked Terence Malone, "they ought to git Simon Gobble out of the ship. He's been a pirate an' a murderer, an' the devil knows what. He swings close to me, you know; an' the other night jist as I was fallen into a doze, I felt something ketch me by the arm. I sprung up in my hammock, an' there was Simon Gobble a sittin' up in his, and he was a sayin': 'Leave me; why do ye hant me? Leave me I say.' And his eyes were closed; and his ugly ould face looked so white, I thought it was dead. I tell ye, Jack, I niver was frightened so bad in all me life, as I was thin; an' it didn't take me long to turn out uv me hammock. You may be sure I slept on a soft plank the rest of the night, an' I've been a doin' uv it ever since. I wouldn't sleep along side that man agin for all the gold uv Peru. Did ever you see such a awful cold, sharky eye as he's got? An' then his face is just like the face uv one of the divils I used to see when I had the horrors. Mark me, Jack, if iver this ship comes to grief, it will be through Simon Gobble."

"Poor fellow," replied Jack, "I pity him. Sometimes he never speaks to any one, and no one ever speaks to him. In all the ship there is not one man he can call his friend—and yet no one does his duty better. But then he has such strange ways about him; and there is hardly a man in the ship that he has not frightened out of his wits. We ought to try to be more friendly."

"Friendly? Is it friendly you mane. Bad luck to him; he'd better never try to be friendly with me."

"That's what the men all say, and it's not fair; they should give the man a chance."

"He don't deserve a chance; a' I tell ye, Jack, he has done something awful. If the dead could spake, they would tell us terrible stories about Simon Gobble. Jist before you joined the ship we were caught in a hurricane. All hands were called to reef top-sails. I was on the maintop-sail yard, and Gobble was at the weather earing. Well, all at once there was a long flash of red lightning, an' Gobble gave a yell that made ev'rybody turn pale. The men on deck an' the men on the yard looked, an' there on the yard-arm, right behind Gobble, was a man with his throat cut from ear to ear, an. the blood streaming down his breast' Terence Malone, I never saw such a bloody set of Irishmen as there is on board this ship. When I first joined her, I was not afraid of the 'Old Harry' himself; but now I don't care to go about in the dark, unless some one is with me. Every time I go aloft in the night, I don't dare to look around me for fear of seeing a ghost. For all that though, Terence, I never believed in ghosts, and don't believe in them now. But I've got the panics, and so I am just as much afraid as anybody."

About this time the other watch was called. Terence turned in on his sott plank, and his friend Jack turned into his hammock—both to pleasant dreams, it is to be hoped. In a few days the St. Lawrence arrived at Tahiti, where she was visited by a large number of ladies and gentlemen, principally missionaries and their families. One day a beautiful little girl was standing on the edge of an empty chest, and leaning over the iron rail around the poop deck, watching a school of sharks that were hanging around the ship. Suddenly the child's feet slipped from under her, and, to the horror of all, she rolled overboard.

In an instant Simon Gobble, who had been seizing a ratline in the mizzen rigging, threw overboard the chest and then leaped after it, fairly alighting among the sharks. With one arm and a long sharp knife he kept off the sharks, while with the other he placed the child in the empty chest, where no sharks could harm her. He now gave all his attention to the hungry monsters that everywhere surrounded him, and to the surprise of every one was picked up by a boat which was sent to his assistance, with only two slight wounds—one in the side one in the arm. He wished to place the little girl he had saved so gallantly in her mother's arms himself, but nothing could induce the child to go near him, and she would shrink away with a frightened look if he attempted to approach her. This was a terrible blow to poor Gobble, and he said: "I might as well be dead, as living and what I am. There is a curse upon me, and I have never done anything to deserve a curse. It is too hard—too hard!"

From the moment he saved the little girl, Simon Gobble was a hero in the estimation of the officers; but the men ascribed his success to the interposition of the devil, and from that time believed him to be in regular communication with the evil one. They dreaded him, if anything more than ever, and Simon Gobble was as much alone on the crowded decks of the St. Lawrence as he would have been in the midst of the Desert of Sahara. In a week we sailed for Valparaiso, and four days afterwards were struggling for existence in the track of a hurricane.

One night Simon Gobble and Terence Malone were stationed at the life buoys. I was midshipman of the quarter-deck, and Terrence came to me and said: "If Simon Gobble is to remain at one of the life buoys, sir, I respectfully ax to be relieved. I haven't the pluck to stay, sir." I relieved Gobble and sent another man in his place. Shortly afterwards I walked forward to speak to the officer of the forecastle. On my way there I heard a veritable sob. The sob came from the aching heart of Simon Gobble, I told him to cheer up, and asked him to come aft and have a talk with me. He replied that he "felt too bad to talk with anybody, but that some other time he would like to tell me his history." Poor fellow, the next morning he was found black and dead in his hammock. The ship was rolling and pitching at such a terrible rate, that it was impossible for the surgeon to examine into the cause of his death; but he determined to wait a little while in hopes that the hurricane might abate. Night came in, but there was no change for the better. It was observed that the body of Gobble was turning white rapidly, but this did not excite any particular comment at the time.

The order was given to prepare the body for burial, and it was immediately sewed up in a hammock with a sixty-four pound shot at its feet. It was then placed between a couple of guns, where it was intended to let it remain until daylight. The men seemed to be gathered in groups all over the ship, and to be discussing some object very earnestly. One of the officers happened to overhear them, and the impression left upon his mind was, that they would rather go down with the ship than go aloft with the body of Gobble on board. This was quietly reported to the Captain, and he gave orders to bury the corpse without delay.

It was nine o'clock at night and pitchy dark. The wind howled and shrieked through the rigging, and I never wished to hear it again. Occasionally a deafening crash of thunder would burst upon our ears, or a flash of lightning would illuminate the sea for miles around. The gallant old ship in her struggles with the waves pitched and rolled until every timber moaned and quivered. In the midst of all every one was startled by the order "All hands bury the dead!" passed by the boatswain in a full, clear voice. Then his mates stationed about the ship, one by one, took up the order, and repeated: "All hands bury the dead!"

The corpse was carried up the gangway and placed on a plank ready for launching. The men huddled together forward of the gangway, and the officers assembled just abaft it. When everything was ready, the chaplain commenced to read the burial service, but occasionally the thunder would be so loud and long continued that he would have to stop and wait until it was over, before he could be heard. Then again a lurid flash of lightning would blind him so completely, that he could not see to read until after the effect of the lightning had passed away. At such times the eyes of all were so strangely affected that everything assumed a weird, unnatural shape. The faces of the ship's people looked like faces of the dead. The corpse seemed to move and glare at us through its canvas coffin, and the St. Lawrence herself looked like a phantom ship. One man touched another to attract his attention, but he did not dare to look around to see what it was that touched him. Somebody's hat blew out of his hand, and it struck Larry McBlather in the face. Larry sank to the deck in a fainting condition, and none of the others dared to move. They pretended to know nothing of the mystery of poor Larry. As the chaplain read, "Now, therefore, we commit the body of our deceased brother to the deep" the corpse was launched. And as it was launched a shriek, so wild and terrible that it chilled the very marrow in our bones, burst upon our ears, and then the faint echo of another shriek that was hushed forever in the seething, roaring waters, rose upon the gale. Simon Gobble had been in a trance, and we had buried him alive.

The hurricane lasted seven days. On the morning of the seventh it commenced to abate, and toward evening it was almost calm. In the afternoon an immense shark was observed to follow the ship. The men all said it was the spirit of Simon Gobble. However, the shark followed the ship for three days and three nights, when the wind fell to a dead calm. One of the midshipmen decided to "fish for Gobble," as the shark was called, and in less than an hour he was traced up over a scuttle on board the St. Lawrence ready for dissection.

Larry McBlather, who felt ashamed of his conduct on the night of the burial, volunteered his services to the midshipman, who wanted the shark's backbone for a cane. Larry commenced by cutting the shark's belly open from the tip of the nose to the end of his tail, and then, as is customary on such occasions, reached into his stomach to find what was there. The men were all interested spectators, and were cracking all kinds of jokes at poor Gobble's expense. Larry sung out to trice up a little on the shark. As they did so, he pulled something out of the shark's stomach—that is, he pulled it partly out, and then with one wild look dropped his knife, and both he and the men who were looking on took to their heels. The men who were tricing up, let go the rope, and the shark went down through the scuttle into the sea. Larry McBlather had extracted from the stomach of the shark the horrible, hideous, half-digested head of Simon Gobble.

Tree Planting.

Iowa, it is said, plants every three years for a forest of five millions of trees, and the Northwest is estimated to have planted within six years twenty-five million trees. Whether these figures are exact or not, the fact is an important one that the people of the West have awakened to the necessity of encouraging the growth of forests. On the prairies the farmer has enough to do for a number of years to get his land into cultivation, and fenced, without stopping to raise trees which, by the way, in most places, he can do as easy as he can raise potatoes. But he wants all his land for crops, and does not like to plow it up and allow the groves to grow, which they will do of their own accord, from seed lying in the ground. He cannot, or he thinks he cannot, afford to wait so long for a return, as is necessary for that sort of crop.

The farmer who goes into a heavily timbered region does still worse. The still standing trees are a hindrance; he cuts them and burns them, or kills them by girding; anything and any way to get rid of them. So obnoxious are they that he does not leave one of them to throw a shade in the Summer over his log cabin. And so it is, that wood is becoming dearer every year, and lumber is worth prices which seem to be unjustifiable. Nor have we anything to boast of in this matter in the East. Very few trees are allowed to stand along the margins of our streams. Hickory wood is $10 a cord in the country and hard to be got; oak is getting scarce, and chestnut not permitted to grow on one-half the hillsides which ought to be devoted to it, and which are neither cultivated nor capable of profitable cultivation by the plough.

In Rhode Island there are thousands of acres of hill land which used to be arable, which are profitless because corn cannot be grown on them to compete with the Western corn, and because the sheep which used to feed on them are not replaced, and cannot be replaced advantageously. They are simply idle, and practically worthless. They could be made profitable. Planted with sugar maple, hickory, ash, chestnut, they would in twenty years be valuable, and might thereafter forever be made to yield revenue. In more ways than one this would be advantageous. It would prevent very materially the decrease of water in the streams which is constantly going on where a country is denuded of its trees; the crops on the low lands would be better protected from the winds, and the appearance of the country would be much improved.

As a popular study, scarcely anything is known or practiced by the people of New England, of the art of tree planting. Hundreds of houses in the villages are rendered unhealthy because the trees surround them too closely and too thickly. Many a farm house looks bald and ugly for the want of a few trees near it, and a grove or so at a proper distance and in the right direction. Profit and pleasure might easily be combined by a little thought and a trifle of trouble. The real difficulty lies in two facts that we have not thought of the subject at all; and that if we had, we are altogether too smart to make any investment which will pay a dividend only to our children.—Providence Herald.

THERE arrived at New York, on Monday, 4,466 immigrants from Europe. Immigration this year is ahead of any previous instance. Large numbers come from Germany, and from Ireland the report is that this promises to be the most active year yet known in the business of shipping immigrants. The regular steamers are all overcrowded, and hundreds are left behind, camping about in the railway stations and elsewhere, to be taken up by the next vessels. Two thousand arrived at Queenstown on the 17th of April, of which number but one-half were shipped. The counties of Kerry, Tipperary, Limerick and Waterford report of the people who are about leaving, that they are all young and healthy, of the farming and laboring class, and many of them coming out to join relatives and friends in America. We welcome the substantial wealth, in laborious industry, which England is but too willing to be rid of. As things are proceeding, it cannot be long before Ireland will be wholly in the United States—the free nation at last which it would be, though on a strange but hospitable soil.

CONTINUES TO TREAT ALL private diseases, Syphilis in all its forms, Gonorrhœa, Gleet, Stricture, Orchitis, and all urinary diseases, and the effects of mercury are completely eradicated; Spermatorrhœa or Seminal Weakness and Impotency, resulting from self-abuse or other causes, and which produces some of the following effects, as blotches, bodily weakness, indigestion, consumption, aversion to society, unmanliness, dread of future events, loss of memory, indolence, nocturnal emissions, and finally so prostrating the sexual system as to render marriage unsatisfactory, and therefore imprudent, are permanently cured. Persons afflicted with these or any other delicate, intricate or long standing constitutional complaint should give the Doctor a trial; he never fails.

A particular attention given to all Female complaints, Leucorrhœa or Whites, Falling, Inflammation, or Ulceration of the Womb, Ovarian, pruritis, Amenorrhœa, Menorrhagia, Dysmenorrhœa, and Sterility or Barrenness, are treated with the greatest success.

It is self-evident that a physician who confines himself exclusively to the study of a certain class of diseases and treats thousands of cases every year must acquire greater skill in that specialty than one in general practice.

The Doctor publishes a medical pamphlet of fifty pages that gives a full exposition of venereal and private diseases, that can be had free at office or by mail for two stamps, in sealed envelopes. Every sentence contains instruction to the afflicted, and enabling them to determine the precise nature of their complaints.

The establishment, comprising ten ample rooms, is central. When it is not convenient to visit the city, the Doctor's opinion can be obtained by giving a written statement of the case, and medicines can be forwarded by mail or express. In some instances, however, a personal examination is absolutely necessary, while in others daily personal attention is required, and for the accommodation of such patients there are apartments connected with the office that are provided with every requisite that is calculated to promote recovery, including medicated vapor baths. All prescriptions are prepared in the Doctor's own laboratory, under his personal supervision. Medical pamphlets at office free, or by mail for two stamps. PITTSBURGH MARKETS.

OFFICE OF PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, FRIDAY, May 7, 1869.

The markets generally continue moderately active, with a fair volume of business in the aggregate, while in regard to values, there are no important changes. Our advices from Chicago, last night, report an easier feeling in Flour and Grain, with a slight decline all around. From this it would seem that the climax has been reached and that, in fact, there was no real or substantial cause for the little flurry which prevailed there during the early part of the week. It is but proper to remark, however, that the upward movement there had little or no influence here, as our people had no confidence in the advance being sustained for any length of time, and in this they acted wisely. It was most probably brought about by parties who were carrying large stocks, and, of course, were interested in having higher prices. This attempt, at the present writing, has the appearance of being a failure, and unless something unusual occurs, it is not likely that it will be repeated, this season at least.

APPLES—Sales at $5@8 per bbl, as to quality.

APPLE BUTTER—90@$1 per gallon.

BUTTER—Is in fair demand at 35@40, for good to prime and 42 for choice.

GRAIN—There is little or no Wheat offering, and Winter may be quoted steady at $1,50, for prime Red. Oats in better supply, and the market is not so rampant; there is no change in prices, however, 74@75, by the car load, and strange as it may appear, some dealers are selling small lots in store at same figures. The demand, however, is not so pressing, since the advance, and it is generally believed that the top has been touched. Ear Corn is selling on wharf and track, at 78@80, and 83@85, in store, as to quality. Shelled may be quoted at 75@78, for white to prime yellow. Rye is selling at $1,40@1.43. Dry Goods Market.

NEW YORK, May 7.—Dullness and depression are still the predominant features of the dry goods trade in all its branches, and in order to effect sales or close out invoices of goods concessions had to be made on some class of goods every day. Cotton grain bags, which went up with speculation and the advance of the raw material, have been reduced to 42½c for Great Falls and Lewiston. A Heavy brown sheetings steady at 15@15½c for the best makes, and 14½ for seconds like the Augusta and Roxbury. A fine brown cottons, like Massachusetts B B, steady at 13c. In printed and colored cottons there is no particular change to note apart from an invoice of Amoskeag prints, in not very good styles, which are offered through a jobbing house at 10¾c, and another line of Wamsutta prints are offered as low as 8½c, which is below the cost of production, still the effect is to use them as a lever to break the value of other goods if possible.

PITTSBURGH IRON MARKET.

OFFICE OF PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, FRIDAY, May 7, 1869.

The metal market during the week has been very quiet and the demand has been chiefly for small quantities for immediate consumption. The quantity absorbed has been abont equal to the amount arriving, so that there is no accumulation of stocks. Anthracite metals are finding a better market East than here, and the heavy shipments in that direction have a very noticeable effect on the quantity arriving here. A lower rate of freight would doubtless do much toward changing the current again in this direction. No change in price or terms is quoted, though a call for a large ameunt would induce a slight concession.

Donaldson, charged with murder in the first degree, was called for examination in the court of Criminal Correction yesterday, and was dismissed in that court, the grand jury having found a new indictment against the prisoner. The principal witness, Ray, is in jail on a similar charge.—St. Louis Dem.

—The Emma No. 3, left Cincinnati for Pittsburgh on Wednesday with a fair trip. Pilots—John Ferguson and Socrates Reno.

—The Kate Putnam, Pittsburgh to St. Louis, passed by Cincinnati on Wednesday. Pilots John Kirkpatrick and Byron Clarke.

—The Louisville Courier-Journal, of Wednesday says: The Lorena, in attempting to land at the wharf yesterday, got to far out and lodged on the rock and remained there about three hours, and at last was compelled to lighten, with the assistance of the W. J. May. At the present stage of water, the channel below Fourth street is very narrow, and unless pilots know the harbor well they have great difficulty in keeping off the crest.

—The license of Wm. R. Wicks, as first engineer of river steamers, has been revoked by the Local Inspectors at Louisville, for interfering with and obstructing the main safety valve of the Leclaire No. 2.

—The St. Louis Democrat, of Tuesday, says: Hayden Lyon, late of the Dispatch, now operates the river department of the Republican. Our friend E. M. Joel, a canny Scotchman, has, we learn, taken charge of the river department of the Dispatch. We hope that in his new employment he will find few thorns, although he may remember that they abounded in the "land of brown heath and shaggy wood."

—A Little Rock (Ark.) paper says: Chappy Houston has received the appointment of master of a new Government snagboat to be employed in the Arkansas river. A good selection and a much needed enterprise. We may now look for the raising of the large number of wrecks lying between Napoleon and Fort Smith, and for the removal of many well known and dangerous snags.

U. S. Bonds at Frankfort, 86.

Petroleum at Antwerp, 52f.

Gold closed in New York yesterday at 138¼.

The last rail of the great road from ocean to ocean, will, we are assured, be laid on Monday next, with appropriate ceremonies.

Republicanism was inaugurated in the State Government of Connecticut last week, with the new Governor's recommendation to the Legislature to ratify the XVth Article, and to pass laws securing the rights of married women to their property. And the Article has been ratified.

Indiana establishes her Agricultural College in Tippecanoe county, styling it Purdue University, in honor of a citizen of Lafayette, who donates $150,000 to the new institution. The Ohio legislature is wrangling over the location of her college, with the chances in favor of the decision being delayed for another year.

The committee appointed to ascertain e amount of damages done to property in the border counties during the rebel invasion, have reported. The amount claimed in the counties of Adams, Bedford, Cumberland, Franklin, Fulton, Perry and York, was $1,821,031.44. and the amount allowed by the Commissioners is $1,093,351.52. Of these damages, about two hundred thousand dollars' worth were done by Union troops.

The newly-appointed Marshal of the Eastern District of this Commonwealth, Gen. John Ely, died almost instantly on the 5th, from the bursting of a blood-vessel. His military record was one of efficiency and valor, but a severe wound received at Fair Oaks compelled his retirement from active service. Subsequently, he filled important posts in the Provost's and Freedmen's departments, and his last civil office was given to him as a mark of the public regard for his capacity and fidelity.

The seventh day of the coming June will bring about for Kentucky the centennial anniversary of the entrance of Daniel Boone, the first white pioneer, into that portion of the then-Virginian territory. The Kentucky press urges upon their people the duty of a befitting celebration of the day,—and the duty is not likely to be neglected. By way of final recommendation in that direction, a Louisville paper suggests that Mr. J. C. Breckinridge be selected as the orator of the day at Frankfort.

The new Cuban programme of revolution and annexation has the same origin as most of the "latest intelligence" of their great insurgent victories—that is to say, it is entirely the product of American sympathy, stimulated by a reasonable quantity of Cuban gold. The programme of which we speak was manufactured to order in New York last week, then shipped with charges C. O. D., including the expenses of forging a glowing account of its promulgation by a mythical insurgent junta. When the neat fraud is by chance exposed, a New York journal, which is prominent for its tender sympathy, concedes the trick, but gravely excuses it as all right, because the "ultimate tendency of Cuba" is in precisely the same direction!

The Louisville Courier Journal, by way of an argument against continuing the present proscription of colored testimony in the Kentucky courts, puts the present position of the law of evidence as entirely in the negro's favor, since he can carry all his litigations into the Federal courts, while a white man is practically excluded from justice in the State courts, so far as he needs negro testimony to make out a case. Our cotemporary now urges that both races should have an equal chance. It scouts the idea that the proposition should be made a test question of the Democratic party, and adds:

There never was a stupider farce than that of refusing white men the same chance of using negro testimony in Kentucky courts that negroes have of using all sorts of testimony in Federal courts. But we do not make a test question of it, because it is not a political but a legal question. Democrats ought to discuss it freely and dispassionately. The people ought to look into it fully and fairly. It is their concern, and if they can stand the existing discrimination in favor of the negro, why of course we can stand it too. Assuredly we have no feeling about the matter one way or the other. It is one of those questions which relate to practical, every-day life, not to government or society. It was carried by the Democrats of Ohio and Indiana when the prejudice in those States against the negro was as great as it is in Kentucky today, and at a time when there was no Civil Rights Bill to urge it.

A POLICY WHICH ALARMS.

It is proper to state that the rumors of the departure of filibustering expeditions to Cuba, from some of our principal seaports, are apparently discredited in semi-official quarters. It may be that our Federal authorities, at New Orleans and New York, as well as their superiors at Washington, honestly avow their ignorance touching the equipment and departure of these expeditions, but we have to regret that all of these authorities do not have better success in keeping themselves advised of what is going on, openly and with eclat, right under their official noses. The local journals are full of minutely written details, names, places, and other facts, being re-published from day to day, and their marine departments at last recording the actual sailing of the clippers and steamers which bear the insurgent recruits. And yet they know nothing about all this in high quarters at Washington!

One thing, however, is fortunately clear enough. The leading Republican and respectable newspapers of this country do agree remarkably, in their comments upon the very grave consequences of the policy which may suffer such acts of glaring ill faith toward a friendly power. What the Federal officers may not yet have discovered, is palpable to, and finds free criticisms in, the current press. The annexed paragraph, from the Chicago Tribune, gives to the readers a fair impression of the general feeling of uneasiness, growing out of the Federal non-action policy which recent occurrences seem to disclose. Thus:

"The Government owes a duty to the country as well as to Spain to take all proper precautions to prevent the violation of our laws, and of the laws of nations, by the fitting out in this country of armed expeditions to Cuba. The circumstances of the sailing of the Arago are not yet known; and how far vigilance was evaded we cannot say. While demanding justice of others towards the United States, we must practice the same law towards Spain that we demand shall be complied with by England.

DOUBLE-BARRELED HINTS.

A writer in the Pittsburgh Post discovers that the new Registry Law, with one set of provisions for Philadelphia and another system for the residue of the Commonwealth, is "a kind of double-barreled law." He is right; it is a double-barreled arrangement, expressly prepared for shooting right and left into such covies of Democratic birds as polled some twenty-one hundred illegal, and already expurgated, votes at the October election in Philadelphia.

Not to press our sporting neighbor's figure of speech too far, we might add that this double-barreled law, if not a repeater itself, is calculated to silence all the "repeaters" that ever expounded Democracy by their votes at a score or two of hustings on the same day. These views of the subject are familiar to our cotemporary, but he discreetly forbears to present them. Evidently enamored of the fanciful conception which his trope embodies, our neighbor expands at once into a double-barreled exposition of his beau-ideal of a Constitution, as to which, being revocable or alterable "only by the authority that made it," the Post declares that "the life-giving principles and the death-doing stroke must proceed from the same hand." Could one have a neater illustration of a double-barreled Constitution?

Our cotemporary quotes a judicial decision (Commonwealth vs. Gibbs, 4th Dallas' Rep.) to sustain his opinion that the new law requires qualifications in the elector which are incompatible with the Constitution of Pennsylvania. The case cited is of a citizen indicted for riotous conduct at the polls where the vote of his blind old father was challenged upon a suspicion of Toryism. The Court then holds, among other things, that the indictment would lay more properly against the inspectors for asking unpleasant and unconstitutional questions of the venerable, but somewhat dubious, patriot. This is another double-barreled illustration of the writer's ideas; but, unluckily, the wrong barrel went off, showing that our neighbor needs to be careful in handling his own tools. It was natural for the Post to cite that case—as of a citizen whose suffrage had been impeached because of an alleged disloyalty to his country. Such victims of radical oppression are plenty, even now.

But our Democratic neighbor comes down at last from his fanciful Pegasus, and looks at facts. He vows that the law is unconstitutional; he goes even beyond that, and declares that it is annoying. But he cautions his friends not to put their faith in tribunals, which have too many Republican judges to be altogether honest, but to take a bond of fate, comply with the law, and register every Democratic vote. Here we have pith, prudence, and practical good-sense. When our neighbor can really come so wisely to a point of policy, he will do well to stick to it, and forego his double-barreled metaphors altogether.

Let our Republican friends take the same advice, in taking the hint with which it forewarns them. Our opponents are registering already. "Some townships," says the Post, "have already begun the good work; let every one go into it, and keep it up until the election." We urge upon our friends to go and do likewise. Let there be a commendable rivalry in this "good work," and then our neighbor's double-barreled advice will do good execution on both sides.

RELIGIOUS INTELLIGENCE.

Not long since, we gave the time and place of holding the General Assemblies of the different Presbyterian bodies in May. The following list of the ecclesiastical bodies, the highest judicatories of the respective denominations named is more complete. They will meet mostly this month. The Old and New School Presbyterian General Assemblies both meet in New York city, May 20th. The Southern (Seceders) Presbyterian Assembly meets at Mobile, Ala., on the same day, and the Cumberland Presbyterian, at Murfreesboro, Tenn., at the same time. The United Presbyterian Assembly will convene at Monmouth, Illinois, May 26th. The Reformed Presbyterian holds its annual session at Cedarville, Ohio, May 19th. One wing of the Lutheran body meet at Washington City, Tuesday of next week. General Synod of the Reformed (Dutch) Church will meet at Philadelphia. June 2d. The General Conference of the United Brethren in Christ will be held at Lebanon, Penn., about the middle of this month. The Baptists meet for Conference, we believe, in connection with the general anniversaries of the different benevolent societies of the Church, and not for legislation, as this part is transacted in the local bodies. The usual anniversaries this year, of our Baptist friends will take place in Boston, commencing the 18th, and closing on the 20th of this month. Quite a number of State Congregational Associations, in Western States, hold their annual sessions during this month and June. The German Reformed General Synod will not meet until November 24th. It will hold its next session in Philadelphia.

The Third Unitarian Church of New York city have sold its house of worship, and will worship hereafter in Lyric Hall. This movement is designed to accomplish a two-fold object,—to enable the Society to erect a fine hall, to be used on Sunday for worship and to be rented for lectures, concerts, etc.,—to secure revenue enough by that means, and the rent of the stores on the first floor, which will enable it to furnish its sittings free to all who may be attracted to fill them on Sunday. These are the reasons offered for preferring an unconsecrated secular hall, for an ecclesiastical edifice wholly set apart for worship.

Sunday week sixty-two persons were formally received into Rev. Henry Ward Beecher's church, fifty on profession, and twelve by letter. The Independent says the pulpit was laden with flowers—the preacher standing like a florist in a conservatory. At the conclusion of the communion services, each of the new members received a small boquet, as a fragrant memorial of the happy hour.

The Lutheran Observer advocates conferences on the subject of union between the adherents of the General Council and General Synod.

The Church Music question is now occupying considerable attention, especially the cost of sustaining this department in worship. It is estimated the music in the nine Congregational churches of Boston cost nearly two thousand dollars, while three Unitarian churches of Boston pay from five to ten thousand dollars yearly for music.

We hardly think it true the report that among those who petitioned that the Milwaukee Library Association would open its library on Sunday was Bishop Armitage, (Episcopal) of Wisconsin.

Rev. G. H. Doane has collected for the American (Catholic) College at Rome, in round figures, one hundred and sixty-eight thousand dollars. He is to visit the Diocese of Brooklyn in June, after which, with the general collections ordered by the Plenary Council, the balance required to secure a permanent endowment and support for the National College in the Eternal City, will be secured.

The Religious Telescope, in discussing "Tobacco and the Gospel," uses severe strictures on persons indulging in the weed. It thinks that even among Christians there is much filthiness of the flesh, and much need of the Gospel of purification. It, however, argued that while it will not undertake to say "that tobacco soaked Christians will not get to heaven, there is no risk in saying that their chances would be vastly improved if they would deny themselves of this detestable carnal lust."

The Young Men's Christian Associations of the United States and Canadas will hold a Convention in Portland, Maine, on the 14th of July next.

Seven Presbyteries of the Synod of Kentucky, of the Declaration and Testimony party, have appointed Commissioners to the General Assembly of the Southern Presbyterian Church, which meets in Mobile, Ala., on the 20th of May.

The two hundredth anniversary of the Old South church, Boston, founded in May 1669, will be observed this month with appropriate ceremonies.

The fifty-third anniversary of the American Bible Society will be held as usual this year. The time fixed is May 13th, at which addresses will be delivered by Prof. Martin, of China, Dr. Schenck, of Brooklyn, and Dr. Tiffany, of New Brunswick, New Jersey.

Clark street Methodist Church block, Chicago, erected a few years since at a cost of two hundred thousand dollars, has been rented this year for ninety-two thousand dollars, all of the church rooms being reserved as usual.

A new religious society has been organized, on the basis of communism, there being perfect social equality between all the members, who all work at the same tasks and enjoy the same privileges. This society has sixteen hundred acres of land on the margin of Lake Erie, in the county of Chatauqua and township of Pomfret, New York, lying around and including the station of Brocton, where the Lake Shore and the Buffalo and Pittsburgh railroads intersect. Almost everything is in a chaotic state. They have, however, commenced the culture of grape on a large scale, having eighty acres devoted to the vine. Their religious belief begins with Unitarianism inverted—that is, they reject the Trinity, but recognize Jesus Christ as the one only and true God. Beyond this, there is nothing tangible in their tenets. Personal revelation from on high; a mysterious connection with the Godhead, which they call a divine respiration, conducting to newness of life; a self-consciousness of the spiritual transformation, and a subtle, undefinable repulsion by which they recognize and reject the unregenerate—all these doctrines are so undeterminate and shadowy that we cannot be sure we comprehend them.

Dr. Dennison, Secretary of the Missionary Society of the Protestant Episcopal Church, stated, in a recent address, that there were fourteen hundred parishes in the west and north-west that contributed nothing toward foreign missions.

The American Christian Review, of Cincinnati, organ of the Christian (Disciples) Church, denounces in strong language the use of instrumental music in public worship, and in Sabbath schools.

The following advertisement we give without charge: "A pastor is wanted for a Baptist church on Long Island. Salary, $1,000. Address Box 3567, New York." This is rather a novel way of getting a minister.

Elsewhere will be found the announcement that Rev J. E. Twitchell, of Mansfield, Ohio, will preach for the Plymouth Congregational Church, which holds its services in the Academy of Music, tomorrow morning and evening. The public will doubtless appreciate the change from the former place of worship to this central and attractive audience-room of the Academy of Music. When this congregation worshipped there before, large audiences were present.

The Popular Family Sewing Machine.

The sewing machine perfect in every respect and capable of performing all description of labor, even to button-hole working and overseaming, must commend itself in high terms to the public. It is therefore not surpising that the public now so generally appreciate the great American button hole, overseaming and general family sewing machine, for which our courteous friend, Mr. James Espy, is the agent for this neighborhood, and has established his sales and exhibition rooms at corner of Fifth avenue and Market street, entrance at No. 12 Fifth avenue, one door below Market street. This candidate for favor on the ground of superiority of work accomplished, its wide range of labor, its simplicity in construction, durability and general excellence, claims much consideration, and we marvel not that it is attracting such wide attention. It will be remembered that thn American is a perfect family sewing machine, capable of well and faithfully performing every description of ordinary and fancy sewing, and at the same time possesses those admirable combinations for button-hole sewing and over seaming, advantages which cannot be overestimated. Thus it will stich, hem, fell, tuck, cord, braid, quilt, gather and sew on, over-seam, embroider on the edge, and do beautiful button-hole and eylet hole work. Notwithstanding that it accomplishes all this work and that its machinery and furniture are of the very best quality, still it is sold at much lower prices than any other popular machine. We have seen it in operation and have examined its work, and can commend it will full knowledge of its superiority to our readers, and ask that they pay a visit to the elegant rooms of Mr. Espy and inspect for themselves its many advantages and benefits over any and all other competitors in the field.

Holtzman & Wiederhold, No. 100 Third Avenue, Upholsterers and Dealers in Curtains.

Few houses have longer or more deservedly enjoyed the confidence of the entire community than that of Messrs. Holtzman & Wiederhold, dealers in curtain goods and general upholsterers, No. 100 Third avenue. The firm have always striven to afford satisfaction to their friends and patrons, and that they have fully succeeded, is amply attested by the large measure of esteem they are held by all who have ever had dealings with them. Their commodious salesrooms are constantly kept packed with a splendid supply of goods peculiar to their line of trade, such as lace and Nottingham curtains, vestibule laces, Damask reps, Terry's Mexican cloth, satins, delaines, gilt cornices, gilt and walnut mouldings of various styles and designs, superior springbeds, mattrasses, pillows, bolsters and all articles pertaining to the chamber. They attend faithfully to the execution of all orders entrusted to them, and guarantee satisfaction in every case. Those of our friends desiring to purchase anything in their way or having anything in their line to give out, should not fail to accommodate this house with a purchasing visit. We know the members of the firm to be gentlemen eminently worthy of patronage, being courteous, obliging, painstaking and fair dealing. Their card appears in another column.

Important Information.

Dame Nature has laid aside her Wintry robes and appears decked in all the variegated and beautiful vesture of Spring. In imitation of this standard authority, the ladies are now making preparations to appear properly costumed for the season, and the important question with them is where can the requisite articles be procured? This question may be easily settled by remembering the fact that W. W. Moorhead, No. 87 Market street, in anticipation of the Spring changes closed out by auction all his old, and purchased an entirely new stock of dress goods, trimmings, lace goods, &c., which are now on sale at his establishment. In making purchases, Mr. Moorhead was careful to remember the wants of the trade, and, as a consequence, every article in the store is of the latest pattern and superior quality, so that no difficulty need be encountered in making selections. Our lady readers, we are sure, will be glad to hear of this fact, as they will thereby be enabled to take advantage of it and be relieved of trouble by calling at 87 Market street to make their purchases.

Books and Stationery.

The establishment of Col. J. D. Egan, dealer in books and stationery, Sixth avenue, near Smithfield street, is doing a thriving business in consequence of the reduced rates at which he is selling books and stationery. Colonel Egan has on hand a large assortment of books, including all the late publications, standard works, &c., and he has also an extensive lot of second hand books, among which are many rare and valuable works, which will be sold at less than half price. His stock of stationery is full and complete, including every variety of note, cap and letter paper, with the envelopes to suit. All the late periodicals and magazines will be found on his counter.

—The steamships, City of Boston, Pennsylvania and Caledonia, from Europe, arrived yesteaday.

—The manufactory of the American Whip Company, at Mansfield, Massachusetts, was destroyed by fire Friday morning. Loss $70,000: insurance $41,000.

—The Boston city authorities have passed an order extending the hospitalities of the city to distinguished invited guests to the National Peace jubilee.

—President Grant has presented the saddle used by him through the war to Mr. Washburne, father of E. B. Washburne.

—The locomotive Franklin, on the Hudson & Boston Railroad, exploded yesterday afternoon between Mellenville and Ghent. No damage except to locomotive.

—The British Commodore, Phillimore, arrived at Keystone, Jamaica, on the 1st, on his way to Havana, to investigate matters there pending.

—Hon. G. A. Filbert, of Ware, Mass., one of the largest flannel manufacturers in the country, died on the 6th, aged sixty-three years.

—The Republican County Convention of Beaver county yesterday elected Captain David Shields, Senatorial, and J. Rittner Harrah Representative delegate to the State Convention, instrueted for Geary.

—The Harvard crew practice on the Charles river every evening between six and eight o'clock, preparing for the international race. The hopes of the friends of the University are high for success.

—In the New York Senate, Friday afternoon, the bill for the consolidation of certain railroads was ordered to third reading, with an amendment restricting the fare on the Central road to two cents per mile. The bill legalizing the issuing of the eight per cent. scrip of the Central road received similar action.

—Superintendent George L. Dunlap, of the Chicago and Northwestern Railway, received a dispatch yesterday morning, from Superintendent Snyder, of the Union Pacific Railroad, at Omaha, to the effect that the last rail on the Pacific Road will be laid at noon next Monday, and that arrangements have been made to telegraph the fact to all parts of the country as soon as the last blow shall have been struck.

—A special meeting of the Halifax Repeal League was held Thursday night, and much diversity of opinion prevailed. One member read a paper on annexation, but no motion was made on the subject. A member of the Government, who was present, denied it was intended to accept the situation. It was resolved that a Convention of delegates from the various Leagues in the Province be held at an early day.

—In the New York Common Pleas Court, on Wednesday, Frances Wailand received a verdict of $6,890, with interest, against John Livingston and his sureties. Livingston is a lawyer, and was administrator of the estate of the deceased husband of the plaintiff, in the settlement of which he was guilty of frands of such a flagrant character as to call for a severe rebuke by the Judge, who pronounced Livingston a disgrace to his race, country and profession.

—It is announced that Tom Allen, the pugilist, after witnessing the deposition of the second three hundred dollars in his match between him and McCoole, will leave St. Louis for Cincinnati, where he will go into training. McCoole, it is said, has reduced himself twenty pounds in the past three weeks, and is in good condition and doing well. It is not expected he will get below two hundred pounds. He now weighs two hundred and twenty-three. Bets are made at $100 to $75 on McCoole.

—A letter from Anna, Union county, Illinois, dated the 5th, says that place was visited by a fearful hail storm the previous evening. The hail stones measured from one to two and a half inches in diameter and not a few as large as a man's fist. The ground was covered in some places two feet deep. The fruit has been almost entirely destroyed. Strawberries were just beginning to ripen, with excellect prospects. Now there will not be half a crop. Nearly all the peaches are knocked off. How far the storm extended is not known.

—A Washington special says: A prominent politician, who enjoys to a considerable extent the confidence of President Grant, and who has recently conversed with him, says that the President expressed his opinion very freely upon the Cuban insurrection, saying that his sympathies were with the oppeassed Cubans in their efforts to free the Island from Spanish rule. Were he to follow his own judgment, the rights of the Cubans to belligerency on land would be recognized, but his Cabinet counsellers, with two exceptions, oppose this course at the present time, and he could not take such an important step against their advice. In short, this gentleman says that the President made no concealment as to his views, either upon this question or the one of extending protection over the Island of St. Domingo, which, in his opinion, would be highly beneficial to the United States in future. Recent facts which have come to light leave no doubt but what the resolution introduced into the House during the last session of Congress, in relation to St. Domingo, met the full approval of General Grant before being submitted for action.

—An elderly gentleman, named Throp, was thrown from his carriage on the 6th, at Elgin, Ill., and instantly killed. Mr. Throp was an engraver and had recently came from the east to fill a position in the National Watch Factory.

THE REASON WHY

Dr. Keyser's Blood Searcher is the best. It is computed that a man's system undergoes three times a year, that is every four months, a radical and thorough change, that is, that at the end of that time nothing remains in the system of the material of which it was composed before that time. The eliminating organs carry out the worn-out and used-up material, and new matter is made to take its place and carry on the workings of the human organism. The cost of four months treatment in this way would not at the outside be more than ten dollars, and frequently the functions of life have an activity and vigor imparted sufficient to renew them by the use of one bottle, costing only one dollar. No organ of the body but will be benefitted by such a process. The liver, the stomach, the kidneys, the skin, the lungs, are all as it were, made over again by the impetus given to the stomach and digestive system—old and prostrated people whose systems had begun to languish and decay, have been restored by DR. KEYSER'S BLOOD SEARCHER to youthful health and vigor. Especially is this medicine suitable at this season of the year, when the dormant powers of life, like all the rest of nature are emerging from the chilling and torpid state usual to the cold and wintry months. We know very well that all advertised medicines are apt to be regarded as useless and nugatory, but with DR. KEYSER'S BLOOD SEARCHER we feel perfectly secure in the promise that it must do good. Country merchants and those who supply others with needful things for their wants cannot confer a greater service than to keep a few bottles of this valuable medicine on their shelves to supply their wants. Dr. Keyser will take back every half dozen that remains unsold. It at the same time affords the merchant a good profit, and to those who need it, it is of more value than silver and gold, for what can be of more value to man than a medicine which carries health and life to the suffering invalid?

We earnestly entreat all who read this to try one bottle of Dr. Keyser's Blood Searcher if they need such a medicine, and we will guarantee satisfaction. In order, however, not to be disappointed, let them buy none but that which has Dr. Keyser's name over the cork and blown in the bottle, and in that way the Doctor will hold himself responsible for its results when the directions are closely followed.

SOLD AT THE DOCTOR'S GREAT NEW MEDICINE STORE, NO. 160 LIBERTY ST.

DR. KEYSER'S CONSULTATION ROOMS, NO. 120 PENN STREET, FROM 10 A. M. UNTIL 4 P. M.

WHAT IS A TONIC?

Bear this in mind—that although a tonic is, to a certain extent, a stimulant—a stimulant, unmodified by any medicinal substances, is not a tonic, but A DEBILITANT. In HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS there is a stimulating element of the purest grade manufactured in this or any other country. Every fiery and corrosive oil or acid which contaminates the ordinary liquors of commerce, is expelled from the rye spirit which forms the alcoholic basis of the BITTERS, by careful and repeated rectification. The juices of the valuable roots, barks and herbs, infused into this wholesome product of the finest grain, still further modify its nature, so that it becomes, in fact, a simple diffusive agent, minus all the heavy and brain exciting properties which belong, more or less, to all liquors in a raw state. It is merely the safe and harmless vehicle which renders the medicinal virtues of the preparation effective—increasing their active power, and diffusing them through the system. Hence the pleasant and gentle glow which is experienced after taking a dose of the BITTERS. Instead of creating headache, as unmedicated stimulants are apt to do, this salubrious tonic is the best known remedy for that complaint. It calms and soothes cerebral excitement, strengthens the nerves, promotes the secretion of the gastric juice, invigorates the bowels, determines the fluids to the surface, improves the appetite, increases the animal vigor, regulates organic action, and, from its mild, yet effective, alterative qualities, is the very best preparation that can be administered to the weaker sex in the peculiar difficulties to which their organization subjects them.

EXPENSES:

N. B.—Among purely Mutual Companies that one is cheapest that does its business

THOROUGHLY AT LEAST EXPENSE.

The rate of expenses for the year's business has been, on the total receipts,

982-100 PER CENT.;

ON PREMIUMS ALONE,

1142-100 PER CENT;

The above wonderful results in the items of expenditure may well be considered in connection with the following extract from the President's Twenty-Fourth Annual Report to the Directors:
"At this time we felicitate ourselves that we have adhered to the mode of distributing surplus and returning premiums to the members which we have acted on from the beginning, nearly a quarter of a century ago; a system plain, simple, uniform, which all can understand, which compels economy and prudence, discloses any attempt at extravagance or fraud, and above all enables every intelligent member to understand the manner in which his business is conducted."

DIVIDENDS.

The Dividends on the above simple and intelligible plan have been since 1861 of the uniform rate of 50 per cent., except in 1868, during which

Two Dividends of Fifty Per Cent.

Were returned, making the unprecedented amount of

ONE HUNDRED PER CENT.

IN A SINGLE YEAR,

The present prosperity of the Company, the amount and character of its assets, and the STEADINESS AND ECONOMY of its management, give every guarantee possible, in the nature of the case, that the dividends of coming years will not fall below the above standard of 50 per cent. on Life, annual rates, payable in three years after the premiums on which they are declared.
There will thus always be three dividends, payable with policy at maturity, to offset as many notes of equal amount which may have been given, so that the outstanding note is NOT (al statements to the contrary notwithstanding) deducted from face of Policy.
Dividends may be left with the Company to accumulate at compound interest until they make a fund, the annual interest of which will pay the cash premium required.
Thus, on the assumption of the above rate, a very simple calculation will suffice to show that a SELF SUSTAINING POLICY may be secured in

THIRTEEN YEARS

ON

LIFE RATES,

And a large accumulation on deposit, as in a Savings Bank, payable to the insured on demand, or with policy at maturity.
In addition to the above, the

MUTUAL BENEFIT

Issues all forms of Policies on the MOST FAVORABLE TERMS, warranted by

PERFECT SECURITY.

To those who prefer full CASH PAYMENTS, it offers all the essential advantages of a Cash Company; but the experience of a quarter of a century demonstrates that the NOTE SYSTEM, as originated and conducted by them, is as

Safe for the Company

AS IT IS

Advantageous to the Insured.

Securing from the outset double the amount of policy for the same cash investment.

FINANCE AND TRADE.

OFFICE OF PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, FRIDAY, May 7, 1869.

There was great excitement in the gold morket to-day, and gold at one time reached 138⅝, closing at 138¼. It is supposed that the advance of the rate of discount by the bank of England caused by the heavy loss of specie will necesitate a further rise in interest rates and induce large return shipments of bonds from Europe. The mere rumor of return bond shipments to New York would cause a heavy decline in bonds and subsequent rise in gold. Under these circumstances, it is probable that gold would reach a figure far above present prices, since we are largely indebted to Europe on our imports, and having also to redeem our bonds, the country would soon be drained of gold, unless a demand for our produce would spring up and gradually neutralize this effect. Any material advance in gold at present would be beneficial to our export trade; the rate of exchange would compensate for the difference in price.

It is somewhat remarkable that whenever heavy disbursements of gold fer interest take place, and government is also a seller for ol gold, that the rates of the premium always advance. At the present time it is the sixth repetition, and goes to show that gold was all along the cheapest commodity and has been the pridcipal cause of the stagnation in business. We aim at an early resumption of specie poyments, but can not close our eyes to facts that are undeniable.

If the question is roised, why it was that gold could go so low ond remain at that figure for a long period, we say: that the condition of the European and general markets have been in the same condition as our own; capital was withdrawn from industrial pursuits and used in the more paying ventures on the stock exchange, or even regular investments of Government and other bonds. The United States bonds being considered the cheapest, and in consideration of the resources of the country, the safest investment, the large savings of nearly all the middle class and small capitalists was invested herein, and consequently withdrawn from the money centres; a collapse in the stock exchange bubbles there would likewise have the same effect here, but we are under suspension, and an over demand for gold would soon put it so high that it would be throwing away all that was gained by European capitalists by buying our bonds at such very low prices, that they would be compelled to desist from returning bonds in self protection and awalt a more favorable time until we have recuperated from the exhaustion of the costly rebellion.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

NEW YORK, May 7, 1869.

The excitement in Wall street continued to the close of the day, and all the markets were in a feverish and unsettled condition. Private telegrams from London were of a gloomy character, and the official announcement from Washington that the sinking fund would not be put in operation until after June 30th had a buoyant effect on money and a very depressive one on Governments. The stock market was kept up by Albany telegrams, but Vanderbilt stocks were chiefly affected. The balance of the list was heavy at the close. The day altogether has been one of unusual excitement and great fluctuations. Money easy at 7 per cent., although the demand was fairly active. National Bank notes were very plenty, and offered free of interest for three days on condition that the amount be returned in greenbacks at the expiration of the time. Prime business notes pass at from 8 to 10 per cent. Foreign exchange dull and weak owing to the sharp rise in gold; sales at 109 for prime bankers for 60 days, and 109¾ for sight, although the leading firms are generally asking higher rates. Gold is active, excited and higher, opened at 136⅝, and touched 139¼ late in the afternoon, closing at 138¾. The Bulls were rampant and the transactions enormous. Rumors from London were numerous, including a great panic and fall in bonds to 77, and an extra meeting of the bank of England to raise the rate of discount. A great portion of short interest has been closed out, and speculators are getting rapidly on the long side of the market. The rates paid for carrying were 1-32, 7, 8, 7½, 4 and 6 per cent. to flat. Foreign bankers were the chief purchasers to-day. Clearances, $125,000,000.

Governments are heavy and lower, with a great pressure to sell. Coupons—'81, 118¾@118¾: do '62, 117½@117⅝; do 64, 113¼@113⅜; do '65, 114⅜@114½; new, 115⅝@115¾; do '67, 115⅝@115⅜; do '68, 115½@115⅝; 10-40s, 107½@107¾; Pacific, 106@106¼.

Wayne 146@149¾. The market continued irregular, in the early part of the forenoon, Northwestern declining ⅞ per cent. while New York Central, Fort Wayne, Michigan Southern, Pacific Mail and Pittsburgh were strong. Late in the day, however, the market became very heavy and there was a large decline throughout the list. The leading "bulls" have been heavy sellers all day, but the market only felt this near the close. The market finally left off excited and with a downward tendency.

PETROLEUM MARKET.

OFFICE OF PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, FRIDAY, May 7, 1869.

The oil market came very near being a complete blank to-day, as there was but a single sale reported, and it was of very small cailbre. There was a good deal of interest manifested, however, and, of course, the main topic of discussion was in regard to the production. While not altogether satisfactory, it is pretty generally believed that the reported increase both in production and stocks, is correct, and as we intimated yesterday, these reports have disappointed the hopes and expectations of those who have been strong in the faith of a falling off instead of an increase. On the other hand, it has very agreebly surprised, those who have been hoping for lower prices, as the increase, is larger than the most sanguine bear expected, and with an increased production, the probability of a decline is generally conceded. As yet, however, this increase nas had but little influence on the market, not as much as one might naturally expect; refined appeared to be fully as strong as it was yesterday, while Crude is but a fraction, if any, lower. We heard a "bull" make the remark, "that the "bears" were afraid to sell "short" at present prices," intimating that they were afraid to back up their assertions with their money. As a chronicler of events in the oil business, we have nothing to offer in the premises, further than, according to present indications, it looks as though the "bears" were a little ahead.

CRUDE—As already intimated, there was but a single sale reported, 500 bbls early delivery, at 14¼. This oil, we understand, was offered all around at 14½, but nobody seemed to want it, and some buyers seemed to have "12½ cents on the brain" badly. It was also reported that some of our Oil City neighbors were inclined to sell; we thought from the way they have been talking recently, that they had ignored Pittsburgh, and had turned faces in another direction. It is possible however, that after all they would just as soon sell to Pittsburgh as to New York, provided they can do so to better advantage.

REFINED—There was not a single sale reported, and while the market was apparently quiet, prices, compared with yesterday, are fully sustained. May, first half, 32¼; last half, 32¾; June, last half, 33¼@33½; August and September, 35; and May to July, 33½. The advance in gold, probably, had some influence on Refined, though it has been steady all week.

Liberty of Worship—Exciting Scene in the Spanish Cortes.

During the debate upon the religious liberty clause in the Spanish Constitution, Senor Castelar, made a thrilling speech in behalf of absolute religious freedom. A correspondent of the New York Times says:

The honorable Deputy enlarged on the history and political principles of Daniel Manin, whom he thought a greater man than any other Italian, including even Garibaldi, and then resumed as follows:

Gentlemen, Senor Manterola has said he would renounce all his beliefs, all his ideas, if the Jews returned again to join together and rebuild the temple in Jerusalem. But, what! Does Senor Manterola believe the terrible dogma that the children are responsible for the sins of their fathers? Does Senor Manterola believe that the Jews of to-day are the same as those who crucified Christ? I do not believe it. I am more of a Christian than to do so. Great is God in Sinai. The thunder precedes him. The lightning accompanies Him. The light envelopes Him. The earth trembles. The mountains are torn in pieces. But there is a God greater and grander. Not the majestic God of Sinai, but the humble God of Calvary. The God nailed to a cross, wounded, transfixed, crowned with thorns, gall on his lips, and yet saying, "Father forgive them; forgive my murderers, forgive my persecutors, for they know not what they do." Great is the religion of Power, but greater is the religion of Love. Great is the religion of implacable Justice, but greater is the religion of pardoning Mercy. And I, in the name of that religion—I, in the name of the Gospel, come here to ask that you will inscribe on the front of your fundamental code "Religious liberty"—that is to say, "Liberty, fraternity and equality among all mankind."

It is impossible to describe the effect of this peroration, and the scene which occurred as the gifted orator sat down. The applause was immense, electrical, and repeated again and again. As he flung himself, almost exhausted, into his seat, he was instantly surrounded by dozens of his Republican friends, some grasping his hands, others embracing him, and others even kissing him. Tears were even seen running down many a cheek, not only among the deputies, but in the diplomatic and press tribunes above. Impelled as it were by one common impulse, the members of the majority, including Figuerola and others of the Ministry, left their seats and rushing over to Castelar, were quite as demonstrative in their approval as the Republicans. They in their turn shook his hands, embraced and kissed him. The excitement even extended itself to the President of the Chamber, Rivero. Hastily ringing his bell he declared the session to be over, and the next moment, descending from his tribune, I saw him embrace Senor Castelar and kiss him on both cheeks.

The speech has been the universal topic of conversation ever since. In the streets, in the clubs, and in the press it has been justly lauded as the death-blow to religious intolerance and to the power of the clergy in Spain. Even the newspapers, which may be said to be the most anti republican, and which have hitherto always adversely criticised the speeches and ideas of Castelar, are full of commendation of this last effort, and boast of him as a "national glory!"

The Horrors of Sing Sing Prison.

An ex-convict writes to the New York Sun, detailing some of the tortures of Sing Sing:

THE SHOWER-BATH.

Over the head of the sitter is a water-pipe about four inches in diameter, which is opened and closed by a valve connected with a rope, and the rope is held by a prison officer. The convict's feet are placed in stocks at the ankle, and are secured with a brick, while his arms are placed in an extended position and held there. His neck is also secured by a yoke. When this shower-bath is full of water a man can easily be drowned; it reaches above his eyes. And into this the victim of malice and averice is placed in a sitting posture. The water is then let on, and he may struggle or strangle, as the result shall prove. Prisoners sometimes become utterly and hopelessly idiotic and insane from the injudicious use of this fearful torture.

THE BUCK.

The buck is another prison punishment, more barbarous, if possible, than the shower-bath. In this case the convict is handcuffed, and then bent up so that his knees can be covered with his hands. A pole is then passed under the knees and over the arms of the victim, and is placed upon a box or barrel, or on some other elevation, so that he shall have plenty of room to swing. I have seen men left in this terrible condition for hours together (when any man who will try it voluntarily for fifteen minutes will find it torture,) until blood flowed copiously from their mouths. And by the gratification of this petty malice the State is deprived of the services of these men for weeks, and sometimes months. Tying up by the thumbs in a dark cell for a day or night is a very common practice in Sing Sing.

THE CRUCIFIXION.

But our State Prison jailers, not content with modern implements of torture, have gone back to the Inquisition and to Calvary, and have brought therefrom another called the crucifixion. In this torture a man is strapped full length, with arms extended, to a cross-bar of iron about seven and a half feet long, and from three-quarters to an inch and a half thick. The convict is kept in an upright position, usually as long as nature will permit, day after day. I can swear that eight out of every ten convicts thus punished are so treated because of complaints entered against them, often maliciously, by contractors' foremen, and, whether right or wrong, the keepers are bound to heed, or else hold themselves liable to dismissal.

On looking over the papers of a wealthy lady who died in New York, a paper was discovered stating that two pots of money were buried in the cellar. On unearthing them, one was found to be filled with gold and the other with greenbacks, the whole amounting to three hundred thousand dollars.

Two physicians in Massachusetts have been sued for malpractice in cutting off the wrong finger of a patient, and the jury awarded $1,407 damages.

The Crime and Folly of Suicide.

You cannot do with your life as you will; it is given to you for a purpose; you are accountable. But the unconverted man—and upon this subject there are large numbers of profoundly religious men who are unconverted—unconsciously, perhaps, regards life as a right. "My life is my own," he says. "It has been given to me without my asking for it, and if I am dissatisfied with it I surely have the right to give it up." Practically most men have hazy notions of this kind, though many would shrink from accepting the stated formula. They are not shocked by the guilt of the man who, as they hear has shot himself to get rid of the hideous tortures of a cruel and irremediable disease. They say: "How could you insist on that poor wretch dragging on, day after day, through the keenest pain, with nothing before him but the prospect of years of slow and acute suffering?" Less sympathy is expended on the more common form of suicide, in which a certain man drowns himself because a woman will not marry him, or in which a woman drowns herself because her husband or lover become faithless. This blunder is committed solely through the man or woman not being able to measure the proportions of the accidents of life. There never was a man or woman worth cutting one's throat for, much as young poets have written of the delight of dying at the feet of some perhaps not very intellectual or beautiful person. The man who stifles himself with charcoal fumes because a certain girl refuses to be his wife is merely unable, at a time of temporary frenzy, to measure the length of life, and see what, after all, are the necessary things of existence—the things necessary to make it bearable and pleasant. You may call this incapacity, folly, or insanity, as you please; it certainly betokens either immaturity or want of mental vision. So, also, is he a fool or madman who with his digestion remaining, cuts his throat because his money departs. To put the case on its very lowest basis—excluding notions of moral duty and responsibility—it may be said that we can sympathize greatly with the man who flies from life to escape unbearable physical torture; that we sympathize less with one who flies life because he imagines that a certain woman is the only woman who can possibly make his future life worth having; and that we can scarcely sympathize at all with the man who, because he has lost money, shoots himself, and wantonly relinquishes the pleasure of friendship, love, eating, drinking and sleeping. It may be answered that he is disgusted because he has been deprived of the means of obtaining these pleasures; but this is absurd, because people without a farthing in any bank whatever do enjoy these pleasures and find life a wonderful treasure through them.—London Saturday Review.

How to Market Butter.

The Boston Cultivator tells its readers how the best farmers near Philadelphia get their high prices: First, they always make a first-class article, so their customers, sure of getting the best there is, will not desert them on account of a rise in the price. Second, they bring in their butter in a showy and attractive condition. No pot of delf ware, no tub or pail of oak or hemlock, no vulgar firkin is used to entomb those noble balls, golden-hued with the aroma of white clover and Poa pratensis lingering in the firm grain. A large tin vessel, designed expressly for the business, has chambers at each end, into which ice is put. Thin wooden shelves, about three inches apart, rest on little projections from the sides. A layer of balls is placed on the bottom and covered with its shelf, but not so as to touch or mar the handsome print of a sheaf of grain, which stands out on the top of each ball; on the shelf another layer of prints, and so on till the vessel is full, then containing forty or fifty pound prints. The tin, with ice in each end, is then set in a wooden tub which has been cooled with iee or spring water. Over this is drawn a cover of padded carpeting, with oil cloth on top. Thus hot air and dust are wholly excluded, and the butter rides to the city and opens in the market house in as fine condition as when packed in the springhouse. In just this way, with just this degree of care and skill, is the best Philadelphia butter made, marked and marketed. No wonder the Philadelphians would rather pay seventy-five cents than go back from such manna to the leeks and onions of the common firkin.

Rain-Fall of the Mississippi Valley.

The average annual rain-fall of the Mississippi Valley is estimated at 40 2-10 inches. The annual rain-fall diminishes as one traverses the great basin from south to north, and also as one crosses it from east to west. In the Delta of the Mississippi the average rain-fall is 60 9-10 inches; in Mississippi 53; in Kentucky 47; in Ohio 44; in Indiana 36; in Illinois 32; in Nebraska 21. At Cincinnati, Ohio, the annual rain-fall is 47 1-10 inches; at Fort Pierre it is only 13 8-10 inches. In Plaquemines Parish, La., it is 66 3-10 inches; in Rapides Parish it is 66 6-10 inches; at Fort benton it is but 13-10 inches. The rain-fall of the Yazoo region is about 46 3-10 inches; that of the vast basin of the Missouri is 20 9-10 inches. The aggregate yearly rain fall in the entire Valley of the Mississippi is estimated to be about seventy-eight and a half trillions of cubic feet of water, of which only about one-quarter finds its way to the sea through the Mississippi river.

Emigrant travel through the city toward the West is unusually heavy just now.

A regular meeting of the Firemen's Association will be held next Monday evening at 7½ o'clock.

The County Jail now contains one hundred and sixty prisoners. Daily additions are being made to the number.

There is some objection being made to the proposed vacation of Stockton avenue, Allegheny, as contemplated in the Park Improvement.

The rain yesterday developed the filthy condition of our streets. The water combining with the dust formed a covering of mud not at all agreeable to pedestrians.

House to Let.—A family desiring a very comfortable and convenient house on Centre avenue, will do well to call at No. 121 Centre avenue.

Committed.—Morris Tropp, of Ormsby borough, was committed to the county jail yesterday, by Justice Schmeger, on a charge of assault and battery.

Lewis Alwine, a Pittsburgher, employed as night watchman on the steamer Glasgow, was drowned at Patriot, Ind., by falling off the boat. He was married in this city December last.

The Case of Daniel Hine, charged with selling liquor on Sunday, on oath of John Cash, came up before Alderman Hays, and not before Mayor Drum, as incorrectly stated Wednesday.

Caroline Kauf made information before Justice Barker, against Catharine Vick, for disorderly conduct. The parties reside in Lower St. Clair township. A warrant was issued.

Major Gen. Geo. H. Thomas passed through the city yesterday, on his way West. He took dinner at the Union Depot Hotel. But few persons knew of his arrival in the city, and he was consequently not annoyed by visitors.

Resigned.—Mr. John Stevens, a very active and able member of the Council of Mount Washington, has resigned owing to a removal of residence outside the county. A special election to supply the vacancy will soon be ordered.

The Card of Mr. McMasters, announcing himself as a candidate for Recorder, should read Hugh McMasters, instead of H. C. McMasters. He is at present the very efficient Clerk of the Common Councils.

Sunday Liquor Selling.—Officer James McKinney made information before the Mayor yesterday, charging P. Spreyer and H. and J. Elkin with selling liquor on Sunday. Warrants were issued for the arrest of the parties.

Committed.—John Hughs, charged on oath of John Brooks, before Justice Barker, of South Pittsburgh, with assault and battery, was committed to jail yesterday, in default of bail for his appearance at Court.

Preparations are being made for a grand concert of the pupils in the Eleventh ward Public Schools, of Pittsburgh, to be held on the 20th of the present month, under the direction of Prof. W. B. Slack. The concert promises to be one of unusual interest.

Preaching.—The Rev. Alexander Thompson, of Amherst, Dominion of Canada, will preach in the First Reformed Presbyterian Church, (Dr. Douglass') to-morrow (being communion Sabbath) evening, at half past seven o'clock.

Disorderly Conduct.—Adelaide Snyder made information before Justice Lipp, yesterday, charging Mrs. Cregler with disorderly conduct. She alleges that Mrs. C., who is a milliner, accused her with stealing three bonnets, which accusation, she says, was false. The case was amicably settled.

Dr. Gleason will deliver his last general lecture this evening, at Lafayette Hall, on the Temperaments, Anatomy of the human Face, Language of Expression; Beauty of the Human Countenance, &c., splendidly illustrated with beautiful models, expensive oil paintings, &c.

Alleged Larceny.—Frederick Althoun, while in Geyer's saloon, in the Fourth ward, Allegheny, had his pocket picked. The light-fingered rogue obtained six dollars and seventy-five cents Charles Ramsay, colored, who was in the saloon at the time, was charged with the offense and taken before Alderman Bolster. He gave bail for a hearing.

Virtually Discharged.—A partial hearing was had in the case of Lawrence and John Billings, charged with larceny, before the Mayor, on oath of Mr. Lemon, who was robbed of his watch and a small sum of money Wednesday night. The Mayor held the accused in their own recognizance to appear on Tuesday for a final hearing.

A regular meeting of the Committee on Fire Engines and Hose, of the Allegheny Councils, was held last evening. The report of Mr. Rodgers, of the condition of the fire alarm telegraph, was accepted, and the line then turned over to the care of Superintendent McCandless. No other business of importance was transacted.

It is urged that if the merchants and manufacturers of the county will regard Saturday, May 29th, as a holiday for the suspension of work, that the ceremonies of decoration will not be held on Sunday, as proposed. If that class of our people opposed to adopting Sunday for the solemn occasion will bestir themselves, we see no reason why the day proposed cannot be made an universally kept holiday.

The Verdict.—The Coroner's jury impannelled to inquire after what manner the unknown man found dead on Duquesne Way came to his death, met yesterday, according to adjournment, and made up the verdict, which was that he came to his death at the time and place previously stated from a cause or causes unknown to the jury. The body was taken charge of by undertaker Aikin and properly interred.

Rev. B. F. Brooke, the new Rector of Christ Episcopal Church, Allegheny, has entered upon the duties of his new pastorate. He will preach at 10½ and 7½ o'clock to-morrow. At the evening service the subject selected for the discourse is "Immortality." The reverend gentleman has the reputation of fine elocutionary abilities and of great energy, zeal and efficiency, in the aggressive work of the church. "Beautiful at the feet," &c. "Muzzle not the ox," &c.

A Handsome Donation.—A few days ago we announced that one of his wealthy hearers had presented Rev. John Douglas, D.D., with a beautiful set of Appleton's New Cyclopaedia. Since that time another of his solid men has presented him with a magnificent book-case, and on Tuesday evening last a few other friends in his congregation made a donation to the Doctor of a purse containing upwards of five hundred dollars. These facts speak for themselves.

An Enjoyable Entertainment.—Last evening the pupils of Mrs. Slack Davis' Academy gave an exhibition of parlor dancing and light gymnastics at the Academy of Music. The first part of the programme consisted of calisthenic exercises, which were followed by a fairy drama expressly adapted from "Mid-Summer Nights Dream." The entertainment attracted a fashionable and appreciative audience, and was in every respect a success worthy of those under whose supervision it was gotten up.

We would call attention to the advertisement, in another column, of Mr. Louis Dreka, stationer, in Philadelphia. From personal experience we can state that Mr. Dreka's stock, of French and English papers, is really beautiful, nor do we think that in the matter of engraving, printing and coloring initials, monograms and crests his establishment has a superior. Many of the most elegant wedding cards and invitations of the season here come from Mr. Dreka's, and we think all who deal with him are thoroughly satisfied.

For Recorder.—B. A. Sampson, Esqr., of Manchester, allows his name to go out to-day as a candidate for the office of County Recorder, subject to the decision of the Republican nominating Convention. Mr. Sampson is a native, to the manor born, well known throughout the two cities and country as of high integrity and abundant capacity. If out of his hosts of friends there shall be enough in Convention to nominate him, his election will be sure, and he will approve himself an officer diligent, faithful and efficient, as one to the manner born.

Base Ball.

The base ball mania seems to have died out in this vicinity. There have been but two or three games played by the juvenile clubs since the opening of the season. Most of the old clubs have failed to organize yet. We are sorry to see this. There is no better or more healthful out-door pastime than base ball when not carried to excess. In Cincinnati, New York, and other localities, already a number of games have been played, and the season promises to be one of activity. We hope soon to see some movements in this line in Pittsburgh.

In Trouble.

Yesterday morning three night-soilers were brought before Mayor Drum, charged with emptying the contents of their carts on the banks of the river in the neighborhood of the dwellings on River avenue, Fourth ward. They were each fined five dollars and costs, and warned against a repitition of the offense. The night-soilers are a prolific source of trouble to the Allegheny authorities. Innumerable attempts have been made by ordinance to regulate the business, but thus far none have proved successful, and complaints are being continually made. It seems to be one of those chronic difficulties for which there is no remedy.

Committee Meeting.

The Executive Committee appointed by the Convention of the several Posts of the G. A. R., of this vicinity, to make arrangements and preparations for "Decoration Day," met at City Hall at four o'clock P. M., yesterday, Gen. A. L. Pearson presiding.

On motion Major Denniston was elected Secretary.

A resolution directing the Secretary to publish an invitation to all churches, religious and other societies in the county to participate in the ceremonies, and request them to communicate with him relative to the matter, was adopted.

The Committee then adjourned to meet on Friday the 14th inst.

Belligerent.

Martha West, a nymph of dark complexion, was arrested yesterday and locked up for a hearing, on a charge of disorderly conduct. It appears that Martha and Susan Ulery, whose name frequently appears in the police reports, went into a drinking saloon on Webster street, and after drinking together several times, became belligerent, when a fight ensued. The dusky nymph displayed too much muscle for her white sister and Susan called in the police, who took charge of the colored female pugilist and conveyed her to the lock up. Susan followed to the watch house at the request of the officer, to make a charge against Martha, and while making the statement, received a blow on the side of the head from Martha, which felled her to the floor. The officer interfered and prevented the "mill" from continuing, by placing Martha in a cell. She will have a hearing this morning.

Eggleston's Sunday School Manual.

This excellent manual is designed as a practical guide to the Sunday school work, and is not to supplant works on this subject, already issued, but to fill a place for which they were never designed. Every department is briefly explained, and suitable instructions and forms are given, to show the plans of the author and facilitate those engaged in Sunday schools. The work is simple in design, eminently practical, and progressive. The author, Rev. Edward Eggleston, is the editor of the "National Sunday School Teacher," and had much to do with planning the late National Sunday School Convention at Newark, N. J. The work may be had from the agent, Mr. F. G. Reineman, 113 Third avenue, just above Wood street, in this city, for 75 cents. Mr. Reineman is also the agent for the "National Sunday School Union," and "The Little Folks," and has also for sale books for all denominations, miscellaneous works, and stationery.

Mutual Benefit Insurance Company.

We are pleased to call the attention of our readers once more to this excellent institution, which presents an abstract of its annual statement in our columns this morning.

We are more than satisfied, from personal acquaintance with its history, that the caption which heads the column, "Success bespeaks Merit," is not an empty boast. Its success is not of that false and illusory kind which consists in a rapid and abnormal growth of its business, stimulated by excessive commissions to agents and the concoction of new and fancy schemes of insurance, by which the credulous are led to believe that its benefits can be enjoyed without paying the inevitable cost which attends every real value.

The Mutual Benefit had its inception in the idea of furnishing to all who might desire it, Life Insurance with perfect safety at the minimum cost. This idea led to its organization on the strictly mutual plan, and has steadily controlled its management up to the present time, when it has the proud distinction of a smaller ratio of expense to income than that of any other company on the continent, considerably less indeed than one-half of the average of all others.

This year closes the first quarter of a century of its beneficent career, during which time it has paid on Lives of Deceased Members over.....$ 7,000,000
Has returned in Surplus Premiums more than..... 8,000,000
And has in Safe and Profitable Investment above..... 16,500,000
An ample protection to its 30,000 policy holders.

It has never lost a dollar from injudicious investments. Wisely conservative but decidedly and steadily progressive, it has avoided, on the one hand, the fluctuations and retrogressions of other prominent companies, and on the other, has kept fully abreast with all the improved plans that mark the history of modern life insurance.

We are happy to know that the success of this Company, in this community, has been in no small degree commensurate with its merits.

For the time it has been represented among us, we are well assured that no Company possesses a larger list of policy holders, and this number, notwithstanding the stringency of the times, has been largely increased the past year, a fact equally creditable to the sagacity and intelligence of our citizens and the personal and business qualifications of the general agent for Pennsylvania, S. M. Loveridge, who will be glad to see any of our patrons at 42 Fifth avenue, and give them all desired information on this subject.

And by the way, we deem it but simple justice to the General Agent to bear testimony to his scrupulous integrity in all intercourse with his customers. We have never met with a gentleman who was better informed, or on whose judgment and advice we would more implicitly rely, in all matters relating to life insurance. He may justly feel proud of his extraordinary success in the conduct of the general agency of one of the richest and safest institutions in the country, and of the perfect fairness and probity of all the means by which that success has been secured.

Legislation Needed.

We stated a few days ago that a special committee appointed by the Allegheny Councils, to consider the best method of improving the Third Ward Diamond Square, had decided to recommend to Councils the adoption of a plan for the erection of a building combining a public hall and a large block of storerooms for rental. Since the meeting of the committee, the subject has attracted considerable attention, and so far as has been ascertained meets with general favor. The practicability of the plan and the immense benefit to the city to be derived therefrom, seems to be patent to all and carry their own recommendations. Since the matter has been agitated, however, a new feature has been developed, which may possibly result in its total defeat. It is contended by some that according to the city charter none of the Diamond squares can be appropriated for any purpose other than occupation for markets or buildings to be used exclusively by the city authorities. If this be the proper construction of the law, then, to carry out the plan proposed would be out of the question, unless special legislation could be obtained. The Committee, however, have decided upon recommending the project and thus bringing it before Council, when doubtless a full investigation will be made.

If this plan be not adopted, some other should, and the more quickly it is decided upon the more the interests of the city will be advanced. The ground in question is too valuable to be allowed to lie in its present condition. If the city needs money, let her reach out a hand in this direction and get it.

Took His Coat.

John Roxbury was once the fortunate possessor of a coat, a black broadcloth article, but yesterday he mourned its loss. It seems that John's financial arrangements, somehow, became deranged, and to relieve himself from the embarrassment, he endeavored to negotiate a loan, by leaving the coat as collateral. The collateral, however, was not regarded in a very valuable light by the parties to whom he applied, as the highest amount he could realize by this method was two dollars. At this moment a friend, Miss Mary Goggins, stepped in, and learning the situation of affairs proposed to take the matter in hand, feeling confident she could succeed better than John. She took the coat, and whether her anticipations were realized or not, John never could learn, as, according to his statements, she has managed to keep out of his way ever since. Fearing the loss of his garment, he lodged information against Mary, before Alderman Lynch, for larceny as bailee, upon which a warrant was issued. In the meantime he remains coatless.

Decoration Day.

The committee appointed by the recent convention of the G. A. R. to make the necessary arrangements for decorating the graves of our fallen soldiers, on the 30th of May, hereby invite all organizations in the county which intend to participate in the solemn ceremony, to notify the Secretary of such intention, and send at least one representotive to meet with this committee at 3 o'clock P. M., next Friday, May 14th, at City Hall.

All patriotic Churches, Sunday Schools, Schools, Fire Companies and Societies are urged to take the matter in hand at once and report their action to the committee as soon as possible, that we may know what arrangements to make.

A Model Furniture Establishment—Where to Purchase Home-Made Furniture at Reasonable Prices.

It always affords us much pleasure to record the business success of gentlemen who start on nothing but strong will, determination and good habits to battle their way forward to front rank and prominent position in the line of business which they have adopted. Over thirty years ago, Mr. C. G. Hammer came to our city, and securing a place as a furnished and thoroughly skilled mechanic in a leading furniture making establishment, steadily worked himself up to a leading place in the trade, and to-day, dating back his career to an humble beginning, finds himself senior partner, and the head of one of the largest and most important furniture houses of the West. He and his two sons, Richard H. Hammer and Robert E. Hammer, all practical and experienced cabinet makers, and industrious and attentive workmen, have formed a partnership trinity which must secure for their house a prominence far beyond the reach of cotemporary establishments. In their own elegant and palatial house, No. 48 Seventh avenue, they have just opened under the name of C. G. Hammer & Sons, a furniture emporium which in point of true elegance, finish and commodiousness is unsurpassed by any in the country. The building is one of the architectural beauties of the city, and by its fine commanding appearance and beautiful finish attracts universal attention. But the rich finishing, the broad and ample salesrooms are matters of little consequence to the purchaser so long as the stock is fully up to the requirements of the day. The first floor room is devoted to sample purposes, where the most elegant, durable and best made furniture for the parlor, dining room, chamber, library, or office, is to be found, all mad by hand, as this firm entirely discards machinery in order to secure perfection in all their manufactures. The double upper stories, divided by massive arches, are devoted to the display of furniture in general, and is approached by a broad well lighted and airy stairway leading from a commodious hall at the lower side of the entrance of the main salesroom. The furniture manufactured by the firm is of the very best quality, plain, elegant and rich, according to the tastes of the purchaser, and is sold at as reasonable prices as can elsewhere be obtained, either in the East or this city.

The factory of the firm has just been finished, and will compare in every department with any in this neighborhood. None but the most skilful and experienced mechanics are employed and all work is warranted to afford satisfaction. A foreman having over a quarter of a century of experience is in charge of the factory, and he personally superintends and inspects every article previous to its leaving the shop, so as to ensure the continuance of the high reputation the firm enjoys. We bespeak for this house a large share of trade and cordially recommend the firm to the confidence and patronage of our readers, knowing them to be fair dealing and honorable business gentlemen in every way worthy support and patronage.

Steam Engines, Machinery and Castings, and Where to Leave Your Orders.

We take pleasure in calling the attention of our readers to the manufacturing establishment of Messrs. Hugh M. Bole & Co., steam engine builders, founders and machinists. Their shop is located on the bank of the Allegheny river, near the Point, Pittsburgh, Pa. Their reputation for making first class steam engines and machinery is second to none, and we are assured, by parties who have used their new oil well engines, that they are unsurpassed in quality of workmanship and cheapness. Their heavy engines, for grist and saw mills, are models of strength and style of finish. Parties wanting an engine cannot be better suited, we think, anywhere, and what is very desirable to a customer is that they can be shown in a few minutes an engine running of their manufacture of almost every size, from a ten horse power to a hundred horse power. Messrs. Bole & Co. have now several contracts for powerful engines, one of which is designed for Messrs. Archibald, Kelig & Co., of Sharpsburg, who are erecting a first class saw mill in that thriving village, and are putting in a sixty horse power engine to run their machinery. Again, we say to the readers of the GAZETTE, visit the Industrial Machine Works of Messrs. H. M. Bole & Co. should you want a good engine, and we will stake our reputation on your getting such at a fair price.

In addition to the manufacture of steam engines and a variety of other machinery too numerous to mention, their fancy castings, made at the Third Avenue Foundry, near Market street, are worthy of special notice. The many beautiful fences and ornamental work, erected by Messrs. Cochran & Bros., are the best advertisements of the work made at this foundry.

The firm of Messrs. Bole & Co. are deserving of patronage, and we cheerfully recommend all the branches of their manufacture as worthy of inspection, and as challenging comparison with the products of the best shops east or west.

Who Gets Them.

Considereble inquiry has been made recently relative to the shipment of a large lot of cigars to Washington City, which, it is presumed, were intended for the use of the President. We cannot say to whom the segars were assigned or for whom they were intended, but we do know that President Grant cannot get a better segar than can be obtained at 45 Hand street, at the wholesale and retail segar and tobacco mart of Jno. Megraw. Mr. Megraw has on hand one of the largest and best stocks of tobacco and segars to be found in the city, including all the best brands of both articles. He also deals in pipes, tobacco pouches, segar cases, and, in fact, everything usually found in a first class tobacco house.

At the popular "Corner Dry Goods Store" of Richard Deakers, Fifth avenue and Grant street, will be found a splendid stock of carpets at very popular prices, such as might have been considered cheap previous to the war. The stock is large and the selection fine, and we urge our lady readers to visit the carpet room of the Corner Dry Goods Store before purchasing elsewhere. An admirable stock of dry goods has also just been received and offered at the usually reasonable prices which have long made the house popular.

Queensware—Prices to compare with any house in the two cities. Please call and examine for yourself. We feel confident that the ware which we now have on hand will please you. Remember the place, Beggs & McGraw, No. 10 Diamond, Allegheny.

High Class Paintings!!—Many of them of transcendent merit, such as have not before been on sale in Pittsburgh, may be seen for a few day at McIlwaine's stock sales rooms, corner of Smithfield and Fifth street.

Remnants of dress goods, silks and poplins and wool goods, cheap at J. M. Burchfield & Co.'s.

The Right Men in the Right Place.

A. D. McKee, Esq., has now the sole control and management of the large establishment of J. W. Barker & Co., 59 Market street. We know of no one better qualified for the honorable and responsible position. Mr. McKee has been well known in this city for about twenty years as a gentleman of excellent taste and superior business qualifications. His whole life has been devoted to the single branch of dry goods, and no one understands it better. He is polite and accommodating to all, however limited or extensive their purchases, and therefore commands a very large patronage. It is thought by some that the opening of another store on St. Clair street, which will take place in about two weeks, will impose too heavy a task upon him. But we know, from personal acquaintance, that he is fully competent, as he is a gentleman of system, to manage both establishments well. Mr. J. W. Barker, Jr., is the eastern purchaser for the house. As an accomplished merchant and gentleman Mr. Barker has no superiors. They are both the right men in the right place.

"Ruby."

Such is the name given to one of the best conducted and most orderly saloons and restaurants of the city. The "Ruby" is located at No. 19 Smithfield street, and is presided over by Mr. John M. Welsh, proprietor, a gentleman who conducts his business so cleverly, and with so much judgment and precision as to entitle him to the rank of prince among caterers. The saloon is one of the most elegant and best appointed in the city, furnished in splendid style and very attractive. The bar always rejoices in a selection of wines and liquors which cannot be equaled by rival houses. Purity of the drinks is the first consideration, and poisoned drugs dealt at the bars of so many houses in the name of liquors are discarded entirely by the host, who pays good round prices for his stock, and keeps none but the best and purest for his patrons. The restaurant department is ably managed, and a good meal served up at a few minutes notice and in the highest style of art is always forthcoming at most reasonable rates. We commend the "Ruby" as the model conducted saloon of the city, and any of our readers passing that way and desiring to call anywhere, should not forget the genial, courteous and obliging host, Mr. Welsh, who is always presiding with grace and dignity over his popular and first class restaurant and saloon.

The Continental Saloon.

The high reputation Holtzheimer's Continental dining saloon has always sustained, and the extensive patronage it receives is the strongest evidence of its superiority as a restaurant. We speak advisedly, and know whereof we speak when we say that the Continental dining saloon is not surpassed in any respect by any establishment of the character in the city. The tables are always supplied with the best the market affords; the rooms are kept clean and neat, and every thing is in the most perfect order. Remember the Continental is on Fifth avenue, one door west of the Postoffice.

The Munson Lightning Rod.

The Board of Education have decided to have Munson's Copper Tubular Lightning Rod with Spiral Flanges, erected on the Central School building; being convinced, since the partial destruction of that edifice by lightning, that the iron rod now attached thereto is insufficient. Munson's Rod will be put up forthwith.
